Tourist Attractions in Istanbul

Istanbul has a unique blend of history, culture, and beauty. This city straddles the Mediterranean and Asia and has a long and varied history. Istanbul, a city on the crossroads of Europe and Asia, is a fascinating destination for tourists. Regardless of how long you plan to stay in Istanbul, you should join an Istanbul tour with an itinerary that covers the highlights. Whether you stay in Istanbul for one day or for one week, you will find the right tour with the Best VIP Transfer Company. You will see the city's top attractions, as well as cross over the continents.

The Roman era carved into the ancient city's architecture is reminiscent of the medieval period. By contrast, the cosmopolitan Istanbul of today reflects both modernity and tradition. The cosmopolitan nature of the city and the cosmopolitan character of its people make it a perfect place for tourists.

The city's history is a source of inspiration. The city's architecture is impressive and has a rich cultural heritage. Its modern culture is vibrant and exciting, combining elements of both traditions. The city has been shaped by both tradition and modernity and is home to an outstanding ancient culture. Istanbul is an age-old culture and civilization that is still alive today. It is also a great place to spend your vacation! You can find beautiful old buildings and a perfect blend of modern and traditional.

Located in Beyazit, the Grand Bazaar is a must-visit. You will find more than 4,000 local merchants here, selling everything from leather goods to jewelry. Turkey's famous bazaar is full of cheap souvenirs and Turkish coffee. In addition to souvenirs, the city's market is a great place to find authentic rugs and tavla boards inlaid with inlaid leather. You can purchase a wide variety of souvenirs at the market, including jewelry, hand-painted ceramics, and other items. The Grand Bazaar is one of the largest indoor marketplaces in the world, and you will enjoy browsing through its many stalls.

And if you are interested in Christian architecture, you will want to visit the Hagia Sophia, which features a 6th-century dome and some of the world's most beautiful mosaics. The Hagia Sophia is an incredible landmark in Istanbul. It was originally a cathedral and a church but was later converted into a mosque. It is now a museum and is a beautiful place to visit. It is also one of the most important historical places in Istanbul. If you are visiting the city, you cannot miss it. The Hagia Sophia mosque, once a Greek Orthodox church, is an excellent place to visit during your visit to Istanbul. The Hagia Sophia, built in 537 AD by the Byzantines, was used as a church until 1453. You can see the mosaic depicting Christ's triumphant entry into heaven and see Mary's birth in the Holy Land. The impressive mosaic in the Hagia Sophia shows the triumphant Christ, the Virgin Mary, and John the Baptist.

The Sultan Ahmet Mosque is an important tourist attraction in Istanbul. The Sultan Ahmet Mosque, also known as the Blue Mosque, is an Ottoman-era historic imperial mosque in Istanbul, Turkey. It is the national mosque of Turkey and one of the most famous mosques in the world. It is the Blue Mosque, named after the blue tiles found inside the mosque. It is a great example of Ottoman architecture, and the blue tiles in the interior were crafted by the famous master architect Mimar Sinan. Despite the octagonal shape of the mosque, it is a masterpiece of Ottoman architecture. It is filled with more than two hundred stained glass windows and has more than 200 ostrich eggs that repel spiders. The ceiling is adorned with Qur'anic verses and decorations. The floor of the mosque is lined with casements decorated with opus sectile. Unlike the other mosques in Istanbul, it is one of the most magnificent in the world.

The heart of the city is in the Taksim district, which is the best place to go if you're looking for a fun nightlife area, shopping, and dining. Vintage trams whiz past on the main pedestrian boulevard, Istiklal Street, which is lined with historic 19th-century buildings, international retail chains, and cafés. The Taksim district has a wide variety of cafes, bars, and antique shops, as well as some of the best restaurants and rooftop eateries in Istanbul.

The center of the city is also home to many of Istanbul's famous monuments. The Taksim Republic Monument, erected in 1928, depicts the founders of the Turkish Republic and other figures that represent the Turkish nation. The other monument is the "Republic of Turkey" statue, which represents military aid from the Soviet Union during the Turkish War of Independence. The two sculpture groups in Taksim Square symbolize the history of the modern Turkish Republic and the Turkish War for Independence.

The Suleymaniye Mosque is another popular landmark. The stunning mosque, located on the Third Hill of Istanbul, was built by Sultan Suleyman the Magnificent. The fusion of Islamic and Byzantine architecture makes it an impressive place to visit. Its four minarets make it a unique architectural structure in the city.

If you would like to explore the natural beauty of Istanbul, the Princes Islands are the perfect spot. Unlike the historic peninsula of the city, this area has been preserved quite well. You can take a horse-drawn carriage to this island, enjoy the views, and even enjoy a local fish restaurant for lunch.

The Galata Bridge, which spans the Golden Horn, is one of the most iconic sites in Istanbul. Its history is legendary and it is the fifth bridge to stand in the same location. It connects the city center with the Blue Mosque, Hagia Sophia, and the imperial palace. The tower was built in 1536 and has a fantastic panoramic view of the entire city.

The Galata Tower is an iconic landmark of Istanbul. Built-in the 6th century, the Galata Tower is a towering structure with a museum, gift shop, and cafe/restaurant. The top floor of the building has a great view of the city.

If you have an interest in history, you can visit the Topkapi Palace, which is situated near the old part of town. Topkapi Palace is a must-see if you are in Istanbul. It is a museum that houses various exhibits, including the Topkapi, the famous Turkish bath, and the famous Grand Bazaar. The top three are a must-see for any visitor to the city. The other important sites are the Golden Horn, the Bosphorus, and the Hagia Sophia.

While exploring the city's historic sites, you can also visit the Basilica Cistern, a complex created by Byzantine Emperor Justinian I in 532 AD to store water for the nearby palaces. The medusa heads in the water are another must-see, and a must-see while you are in Istanbul. You can see various sculptures in the gardens, including a statue of Medusa. Its underground space is the setting for numerous movies and is a unique tourist attraction. It is best to book an Istanbul tour of the top attractions in Istanbul so you can skip the long queue.

A list of the best Istanbul tourist attractions would be incomplete without a visit to the Hippodrome. This ancient site was once used for chariot races and still houses obelisks from Egypt. The Hippodrome was once the main thoroughfare for the city, and now it is one of the most popular destinations for tourists.

Istanbul Travel Places

Just a few places we can visit in Istanbul by purchasing services from Best VIP Transfer. Istanbul is home to thousands of mosques and historical sites.

Located at the top of the Hagia Sophia, the Basilica Cistern is an underground attraction with a unique history and architecture. It has been a place of pilgrimage since the 7th century, and today, visitors can take a walk down its wooden paths to learn more about the city. While visiting the Basilica Cistern, visitors should also explore the Sultanahmet neighborhood. The city has much more to offer than just the Sultanahmet area.

The Galata Tower is a must-see in Istanbul. You can climb the tower to enjoy a spectacular view of the city. From the top, you can dine at the restaurant or grab a quick snack from the cafe. The Galata Tower also has a nightclub, where you can enjoy a traditional Turkish show while you eat. A visit to this iconic building is guaranteed to be one of your best memories of your Istanbul trip.

While strolling the streets of the historic part of Istanbul, don't miss the Ortakoy Mosque. It is one of the prettiest mosques in the city. Built in the middle of the 19th century, the Ortakoy Mosque is an excellent example of Ottoman architecture. The mosque is free to visit and donations are greatly appreciated. There are several other attractions in the area, and some are free.

Camlica Hill is one of Istanbul's highest hills and boasts a stunning park. It is an ideal spot for leisure and recreation for locals and tourists alike. The hill has great views of the city and the Bosphorus. While the hill isn't open to the public, it is free to visit. Aside from its stunning architecture, the Camlica Mosque also provides a good opportunity to observe the history of this magnificent city.

If you're a history buff, then you should visit the Grand Bazaar. It's the world's largest covered market and the oldest. It dates back to the 1400s, and is the largest and most historically covered market in the world. Originally, the Grand Bazaar was just two separate buildings. Later, it was surrounded by stalls and shops. The Grand Bazaar was a hub for trade in the Mediterranean and was frequented by many caravans bringing goods from Asia and Europe to Europe.

Istanbul Tourism

When planning a trip to Istanbul, you might want to consider visiting the city's seven hills and Bosphorus. The area is rich in history and culture and the city is also surrounded by endless beauty. ### Nisantasi (Nişantaşı)

Before we start talking about Nişantaşı, which is one of the most luxurious and favorite areas of Istanbul, which you can reach comfortably with the privilege of VIP Istanbul Tourism, let's find out where it got its name. In the Ottoman period, stones were planted to mark the places where the arrow fell, in order to show that the arrows shot from far away in the competitions broke the record by going many kilometers away. In the most elite district of Istanbul, Nisantasi took its name as "mark stone" because there are 5 of these historical landmarks. These historical landmarks, located in different parts of the district, will put you in an authentic atmosphere and offer ostentation and authenticity together.

The reason why it is popular today is that it is the most luxurious and elite region of Istanbul. You may not meet a famous actor or artist on the street every day, but you can often come across famous movie, TV series actors or artists on the street every day in Nişantaşı. Of course, you can meet not only celebrities in Turkey, but also world-famous stars who stop by here before their concert. In Nişantaşı, you will meet stylish people who will not look for fashion shows.

About Design of Nişantaşı

Everything you see on the streets in Nişantaşı is a product of original design; You can come across a new and original work every day, such as street lamps and billboards. Street performance artists will attract you for hours with their unique plays and shows, and you will feel yourself at the heart of art with theater halls, performance centers and even foam decorations on your coffee cup. Do not pass without tasting one of these unique coffee works that came to Nişantaşı with VIP Istanbul Tourism.

Another interesting aspect of Nişantaşı is that it has magnificent cafes. You will notice that each cafe has a different and magnificent concept work, and this will offer you an experience that will move you away from monotony. In cafes, you will overhear people talking about books for hours, and people around you exchanging information on deep cultural topics. Experience the cafes of Nişantaşı with VIP İstanbul Tourism, just like in a French art movie.

You can shop from the cute boutique shops in the small side streets, from products brought from various parts of the world that you can't see on anyone else. The glamorous stores of famous brands, which is the biggest reason why Nişantaşı is famous for being luxurious, will not hesitate to offer you the elegance you need with the latest season fashion products.

You can have a wonderful Nisantasi experience with VIP Istanbul Tourism.

Istanbul Airport Transfer Comment

Istanbul Airport Transfer is so important, but many people and guests have some anxiety – worry. We think that you can have many ideas about Istanbul Airport Transfer and VIP Transfer when we share the comments of our and also other guests.

As you know the Istanbul new airport is so far from the city center. So, you need, of course, a transfer. You want to use a VIP transfer, but you do not know and you have some worries. Let us share with you the comments of the guest who used VIP transfer from airport to the hotel and from the hotel to the airport.

The Comments of the Tripadvisor's and our Guests

Aida G: This airport steals our life for some hours. Because everywhere is too far to believe. Welcome to the new airport in Istanbul, but there is no bus. The taxis are not comfortable and fast. Also, you cannot find an overtime taxi anywhere. So, how can we transfer to our hotel or anywhere in the city center?

I prefer your VIP Transfer. You can book it on the Internet before the flight and they can welcome you at the airport. They are waiting with the VIP vehicle. You can get in and go to a hotel so comfortable and fast. The cost is the same with Taxi but it is more comfortable and faster.

Doğukan: Everybody likes the building of the airport. The parking costs are so expensive. There is no bus or well taxi. If there is no VIP transfer we cannot transfer to the airport. Thank you VIP Tourism and Transfer.

Sanjowergh: The airport is perfect. Everything is like a dream without public transfer. If you use a taxi, you cannot go where you go at the time. I selected VIP transfer. I prefer you. If you use VIP transfer, you can arrive at the airport at the time. Thank you very much VIP Tourism-Transfer Company.

Galataport Project

Galataport is one of the largest coastline projects in the world. It is located on the coastline between Karaköy Pier and the building belonging to Mimar Sinan University Fındıklı Campus. In 2002, the project took its first steps and was announced to the public. Since the first hammer hit in late 2016, construction work has continued to grow. The project is carried out by The Doğuş Construction Group.

Galataport project; It covers the construction of piers and breakwaters with a length of approximately 1.238 meters, including the Salıpazarı and Karaköy piers. The demolition work at the port started with the old buildings in the Karaköy region, where passenger acceptance and passport procedures were carried out, with one and two floors. Then the demolition work of the warehouses was completed. Later, the building of the Istanbul Modern Art Museum, located in the Galataport project area, was demolished and the construction work was accelerated. The demolition work took time, and a year later, the concrete pouring process was completed and the construction of new buildings began.

When put into service, Galataport Istanbul is large enough to host 25 million visitors annually. It is a new center for culture and art life, with 2 museums on its site and a recreation area of 14 thousand m<sup>2</sup> in the middle.

The main purpose of the project is to serve as and serve as a cruise terminal, meeting passengers with waiting areas and ticketing counters. In this large facility; There are duty-free shops, usage areas for government officials, technical rooms, hotels, restaurants and other commercial businesses, various entertainment areas, cultural and art centers, and recreation areas.

Giant cruise ships will reach the port with the articulated system, which will be implemented for the first time in the world, at Galataport. Passengers arriving at the pier in the terminal area will be able to carry out passport control and customs procedures right after. It aims to be the world's largest giant cruise ship port with this functionality and features.

Rent a Car Tour

Whether you are taking a road trip to a faraway place or you need a vehicle for a special event, the VIP Istanbul Tourism has a rental car tour that is right for you. A car rental from VIP Istanbul Tourism is the most affordable way to explore a region. From affordable daily rentals to longer vacations, we have what you need for your next getaway. You can save money on your rental and still get more than the service that a traditional rental car company provides. Our services offer a wide range of vehicles and packages, which can help you make the most of your time in different locations.

If you are a business traveler, a rent-a-car tour is a great option. You can enjoy the freedom of touring a city by yourself. You can choose from a variety of luxury cars and options ranging from Audi to Mercedes. If you're looking for a comfortable car and a low rate, you can book one from VIP Istanbul Tourism.

When booking with us, you can save money by getting a package that includes a car rental. You can choose the type of car that best suits your needs and budget. We have many different car options, you could go for the one with the best rate and highest comfort. You can book a luxury rental car with a discount from VIP Istanbul Tourism.

You'll need a car of the right size for your tour. It can be small or large, depending on your needs. It's important to choose the right car for your trip. You can choose an SUV that's seven or ten seats. You can also choose a van that can accommodate twelve passengers. If you need more space, you can opt for a larger van. You can always add the additional private driver.

Rent a car with a driver in Istanbul

As cities grow and develop, existing transportation infrastructures cannot respond to this. Istanbul is one of the most populated cities in the world. Thus, transportation problems in cities are increasing. In addition, the inefficient use of public transportation vehicles is among the factors that increase urban transportation problems.

Istanbul has been hosting millions of local and foreign tourists for years. However, its population is quite crowded in terms of job opportunities and immigration. In cities with such a tourist and crowded population, special transport options are offered as a solution to transportation. The most logical of these options is to rent a car with a driver in Istanbul.

Benefits of Rent a Car With Driver in Istanbul

If you are traveling for business and your time is valuable, renting a car with a driver is just for you. As you save time, you also realize your transportation with prestige.

It is the best alternative to help you and your loved ones on special meetings, private business, parties and special occasions. It is a great advantage because it allows you to reach your destination on time.

The most tiring situations when providing transportation are the cunning attempts of the taxi drivers, the unhygienic smell in the buses. It allows you to reach your destination comfortably on time without experiencing any stress.

Searching for an address in Istanbul traffic is one of the most difficult and stressful situations. It saves you from this stress and allows you to enjoy the journey.

In line with your planning, you can benefit from the service 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, at the time most convenient for you.

You will be picked up from the designated point and dropped off safely at your destination. You do not take delivery or return any vehicle. It saves you an incredible workload and time.

You don't need to think about where your vehicle is, you don't need to think about the fuel condition of the vehicle or any malfunctions, you don't need to search for a parking lot, you don't have to pay for parking.

You can rent a car with a driver in Istanbul not only for you but also with your loved ones for up to eight people.

Sabiha Gokcen Airport

Sabiha Gokcen Airport is the other biggest airport in Istanbul. It is in Pendik town. The airport was named after Sabiha Gökçen, the world's first female fighter pilot and Turkey's first female pilot. There are national and international parts of the airport.

There is a big Autopark which has 4.718 vehicles and 72 bus capacity.

Many banks have ATM–cash dispensers.

There is a big airport hotel which has 128 rooms.

Sabiha Gökçen Airport has also VIP rooms, CIP parts, Conference rooms, many cafes, and restaurants, etc.

Airlines and Destinations in Sabiha Gökçen Airport

Air Arabia: Şarika

Air Manas: Bişkek

AnadoluJet: Abu Dabi, Amsterdam, Bagdat, Madine, Tahrán, Wien etc.

Azerbaijan Airlines: Baku

Buta Airways: Baku

Air Arabia Maroc: Kazablanka, Tanca

Emirates: Dubai

Pegasus Airlines: Abu Dabi, Almati, Amsterdam, Ankara, Bucharest, Stockholm, Wien, Tel-Aviv, Kzablanka, Madrid etc.

Pegasus Airlines – Planet of Pegasus Airlines

Transportation in Sabiha Gokcen Airport

The transportation is so developed in this airport. There are many transfer options like taxi, public bus, shuttle, VIP transfer, rent a car, etc. Where you want, you can go there from this airport so easily.<sup>2</sup>

Istanbul Airport

Istanbul Airport is the new and biggest airport of Turkey in Istanbul. The build of the airport has Turkish traditional art as so modern. There are many possibilities for travelers at the airport while they wait for their plane and flight. You can find duty-free stores, cafes, restaurants, VIP rooms, CIP rooms, ATM – cash dispensers for many banks like Garantibank, Akbank, Kuveyt Turk, Is Bank, Halkbank, Vakifbank etc. Also, there are exchange offices, the mosque, the game area for the kids, baby rooms and more...

Transportation in Istanbul Airport

The public bus line is not enough. But some bus lines can provide us with transportation.

IETT – Public Buses

H2: Istanbul Airport to Mecidiyekoy,

H3: Istanbul Airport to Halkali

H4: Ataturk Airport – Airport

HAVAIST

You can use also HAVAIST. From the airport to some location you can go on this bus.

IST1: Yenikapi – Airport

IST2: TUYAP – Airport

IST3: 15 Temmuz Demokrasi Bus Station (Esenler Bus Station) – Alibeykoy Bus Station – Istanbul Airport

IST7: Kozyatagi Metro Line – Airport

IST19: Taksim – Besiktas – Airport

What is HAVAIST? You can read our special blog article about HAVAIST too.

Taxi

There are many taxis at the airport. You can use them also you can call a taxi with the “Bitaksi” application.

Rent a Car and Rent a Car with Driver

Are two options for that. You can use special rent a car or rent a car with a driver. Both of them are possible. But the rent a car with a driver is a luxury, safe, and cheaper than others.

Rent a Car

You have to make a booking, some days or 4-5 hours ago. There are many rental companies that you can reserve like Enterprise, Garenta, Moov, Six Rent a Car, Avis and Green Motion, etc. You should have a driver's license. Generally, you have to pick up and give back the rental car to the same office, so to the airport. If you want to give the rental car to another office, you can pay the drop-off cost.

Rent a Car with Driver

You don't need a driver's license. You have to make a booking minimum of 4 hours ago like normal rent a car option. This is a luxury airport transfer. When you buy this transfer option as rent a car with a driver, your vehicle will be luxurious and modern. The driver or worker will welcome you at the airport. The transfer company follows your flight. When you arrive at the airport. They will welcome and take you from the airport. Then they will transfer you to your hotel or anywhere you request.<sup>3</sup>

Flight Terms

Absolute altitude The vertical distance of the aircraft above the ground.

Adverse yaw When the nose of an aircraft turns away from the direction of turn.

Aeronautical Information Manual (AIM) A publication by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) that instructs pilots how to operate correctly in the US National Airspace System. There are separate guides for the USA and Canada. The AIM is the official guide to flight information, Air Traffic Control (ATC) procedures and aviation safety.

Air Traffic Control (ATC) A service operated by the authorities to ensure the safety of air traffic. Air traffic controllers in a ground-based ATC facility direct aircraft in their area during take-off, landing and while flying in the airspace.

Airfoil The shape of a surface such as a wing, blade, turbine or rotor that generates lift from air passing over it.

Altimeter A cockpit instrument that measures the aircraft's altitude. The altimeter consists of an aneroid barometer which calculates altitude based on the current air pressure.

Altitude indicator An instrument that details the relation of the aircraft to the horizon.

Angle of attack The angle made from the chord line of an airfoil and the direction of the air that strikes it.

Anhedral The downward angle or inclination of an airplane's wing in relation to a horizontal cross-section line.

Annual inspection A nose-to-tail inspection of an aircraft that is required every 12 months.

Autogiro or autogyro An aircraft that is often wingless, similar to a helicopter. However, an autogiro has unpowered rotary blades that rotate due to air speed and slipstream to get air powered-lift. Also known as a gyroplane.

Avionics master switch The switch that controls electrical power to all electronic navigation and communications equipment in the aircraft.

Base leg A descending flight path that runs in the direction of landing along the runway.

Best lift over drag ratio Often referred to as "L over D max," this is the highest value of the ratios of lift to drag for any airfoil.

Blade angle The angle between the chord of a propeller blade and a plane of rotation.

Bleed air Compressed hot air that is produced by the operation of the engine. This is then used at high pressure for de-icing and heating the jet.

Camber The degree of curve in an airfoil.

Cargo Goods carried on an airplane.

CAVU Stands for Ceiling and Visibility Unlimited, which indicates the ideal flying conditions, with a visibility of at least 10 miles and a ceiling of at least 10,000 feet.

Charter Hiring an airplane. Business and high-profile clients may often charter a private jet.

Chord line An imaginary line on an airfoil from the leading edge to the trailing edge.

Clearance Authorization given by air traffic control aimed to prevent collision between aircraft.

Climb A maneuver that increases the altitude of the aircraft.

Controlled airspace A defined area of the sky that is controlled by ATC services. Controllers direct planes through the airspace, plotting the safest and most efficient route for each aircraft. All airplanes flying in controlled airspace must get clearance to enter the zone and be equipped to national regulations. The pilot must have the correct qualifications.

Course deviation indicator Also known as "CDI", this is the needle on the VOR indicator that shows whether the aircraft is to the right or left of the desired radial.

Crosswind Wind that blows in a direction not parallel to the course.

Deadstick A term for a forced landing, which takes place when the plane loses all propulsive power because the engine and propeller have stopped.

Delta wing A triangle-shaped wing that looks similar to the shape of the uppercase Greek letter, delta. This type of wing is often used on fighter planes because of its superb aerodynamics.

Descent A flight maneuver that causes a downward inclination.

Distress A condition on the aircraft that signals danger and requires immediate action.

Downwash In aeronautics, the term describes air that is deflected downwards by the aircraft wing or a rotor blade on a helicopter, usually when the plane is taking off.

Downwind leg A flight path that runs parallel to the landing runway in the opposite direction of landing.

Drag A force on the aircraft as it moves through the air. The force runs parallel and opposite to the airplane's direction.

Emergency overrun A surface before the take-off area on the runway that is kept clear. This portion is designed to minimize damage to an aircraft if it is unable to stop.

Empennage A term for the aircraft's tail, which is made up of a rudder, a fin and a stabilizer. This is also known as the tail or tail assembly and provides stability for the jet during flight.

Engine An aircraft engine is a machine that converts energy to power the plane.

Estimated time en route Commonly referred to as "ETE"; the estimated flight time a journey will take from departure to arrival in the destination or checkpoint.

Estimated time of arrival Commonly referred to as "ETA"; the time an aircraft is predicted to arrive in its destination or checkpoint.

Federal Aviation Authority (FAA) A national authority in the United States that regulates all aspects of civil aviation.

Final approach A flight path that leads towards the landing runway.

Fixed Base Operator (FBO) A business or organization that operates at an airport. An FBO provides aircraft operating services like maintenance, fueling, flight training, charter services, hangaring and parking.

Flaperon A control surface that uses aspects of both flaps and ailerons, such as on the wing, to direct the roll or bank of a plane.

Flaps Flat surfaces added to the edges of the wing. These change the curve of the wing and allow the pilot to adjust lift and drag so the plane can safely fly at a lower speed.

Flight deck Another name for the cockpit, which is located at the front of the aircraft and holds the pilot and instrument panels.

Flight plan Information filed with the relevant ATC authority about a flight, including its duration, route and destination.

Fuselage The central body portion of an aircraft.

Ground control The personnel and equipment in a control tower who are responsible for the safe and efficient movement of aircraft on the ground.

Groundspeed The horizontal speed that an aircraft travels over the ground.

Horizontal stabilizer A small lifting surface on the tail of an aircraft, also known as the tailplane, that provides stability.

Instrument Flight Rules (IFR) The rules that govern flying under instrument meteorological conditions. Pilots follow these rules and create IFR flight plans for various weather conditions.

Instrument landing system (ILS) A radar-based system which allows ILS-equipped aircraft to find a runway and land safely, even when clouds are as low as 200 feet.

Joystick Also known as the control column, the joystick is the main device in the cockpit for controlling the aircraft. The joystick is usually floor- or roof-mounted.

Knot A measurement or unit of speed that equals one nautical mile and about 1.15 statute miles.

Landing gear The undercarriage of an aircraft. This structure supports the plane when it's not flying and is used during taxi, lift-off and landing.

Level flight A flight maneuver that causes the aircraft to stay at the same altitude.

Lift The aerodynamic force acting on an airplane that runs perpendicular to the relative wind.

Lift causes the upward force that allows the aircraft to oppose gravity.

Lighter-than-air craft (LTA craft) Refers to things like blimps, dirigibles and free balloons that float.

Longitudinal axis A direction of orientation; an imaginary line that passes horizontally through the center of gravity, from the head to tail of an aircraft.

Magnetic compass A liquid-type compass and essential navigation instrument that displays an aircraft's orientation in relation to the magnetic poles.

Maneuvering speed A speed calculated by the aircraft manufacturer that keeps the user from exceeding the maximum load factor for the airplane.

Master switch The switch that controls power to all electrical circuits in an aircraft.

Mean sea level (MSL) The average height of the surface of the sea. MSL is used in aviation to measure altitude.

N number The registration number on a US-registered plane. The letter N is the letter internationally used to identify a US plane.

Navaid Stands for Navigational Aid, a device in an aircraft used to help with navigation.

Oil pressure gauge An instrument in the aircraft that shows the pressure of the lubricating oil in the engine.

Operating limitations Indicates limits for a specific aircraft's speed, weight, pressure, and passenger and crew size. The limits are determined by the aircraft manufacturer.

Pilot in command (PIC) The pilot responsible for the safety and operation of the plane for the duration of the flight.

Pitch A motion on an aircraft's lateral axis (which runs from wing to wing) that causes the forward end to rise or fall.

Preignition Ignition that takes place in an internal combustion engine before the usual ignition occurs.

Primary flight display Also called "PDF", this is the electronic display screen that indicates the horizon, altitude, airspeed, vertical speed, rate of turn, trend and more.

Propeller A rotating piece powered by the engine that produces thrust to propel the airplane through the air.

Quadraplane A type of aircraft that has four or more wings of similar spans, also known as quadruplanes.

Radar Approach Control Facility (RAPCON) A facility based in an airport terminal that uses both non-radar and radar to provide services for planes that are moving through a controlled airspace, landing, or taking off. RAPCONs commonly operate near civil and military airports and may be controlled by the FAA, military or both.

Registration number The number assigned to an aircraft by the government for purposes of identification. The number must be displayed on the exterior of the aircraft so it is visible.

Roll Motion on an aircraft along its nose-to-tail axis.

Rudder A vertical control surface in the tail of an airplane, which controls the side-to-side movement (YAW) of an aircraft.

Runway A rectangular area of the ground set aside for aircraft to land and take-off.

Short field A short runway length at the airport that requires a pilot to take off or land an aircraft within the shortest possible distance.

Single engine An aircraft with just one engine. Single-engined jets include light aircraft such as Cessnas.

Soft field An unpaved airport runway typically comprised of grass or dirt.

SQUAWK A four-digit number assigned to an aircraft. The pilot can use this number to identify his or her plane when contacting ATC.

Stall An aircraft condition when the angle of attack is so great that the air no longer flows easily over the airfoil.

Straight flight The flight maneuver that causes the aircraft to maintain the same direction.

Tail The aerodynamic surfaces located at the rear of an aircraft.

Threshold The portion of a runway that is available for landing.

Throttle A valve in the carburetor that controls the amount of fuel that can enter the engine.

Thrust An aerodynamic force produced by a propeller or engine that pushes an aircraft forward.

Torque A force that aims to produce rotation.

Tower A radio call sign used to reach the local controller.

Transponder The device carried in an airplane that produces a coded pattern which is recognized on an air traffic control radar screen.

True airspeed Also called "TAS"; the speed of an aircraft as it moves through the air. The number is corrected to account for temperature and altitude.

True altitude The distance of an aircraft above sea level. This is represented in Mean Sea Level.

Turbosuperchargers A turbine-driven forced induction device, also known as a turbocharger. It increases the power and efficiency of a combustion engine and is used in aviation and ground vehicles.

Upwind leg A flight path that runs parallel to the landing runway in the same direction as landing.

Urgent condition A potential distress scenario that requires assistance, though not necessarily immediate.

Vertical Speed Indicator (VSI) A panel instrument that measures the rate of climb or descent in feet-per-minute, by sensing the change in atmospheric pressure. The VSI is also known as a variometer.

Very high frequency omnidirectional range Also called "VOR", this is a short-range radio navigation system that allows aircraft to determine their position and receive radio signals from beacons on the ground.

Weight-shift-control A method of steering an aircraft such as a hand glider or paraglider. The pilot uses their weight to steer the craft, pushing against a triangular control bar that's attached to the wing structure.

Wind Shear A quick change in wind speed or wind direction at any angle.

Wing The piece of a heavier-than-air aircraft that creates aerodynamic lift.

Wing walker An employee on the ground who assists the aircraft by walking on the wings to ensure there is ample space for clearance.

YAW The side-to-side movement of an aircraft on its vertical axis.

Yoke The control wheel of an aircraft, similar to a car steering wheel.

Zulu Time A term for Universal Coordinated Time (UTC), also known as Greenwich Mean Time. All flight plans use Zulu Time.<sup>7</sup>
